

Rotrude de Haudre, Daughter of Duke Haudre

Rotrude de Haudre, WIFE of Ingelram de Hesbaye, MOTHER of Ermengarde de Hesbaye, who was the wife of King Louis the Pious.

<https://www.ancestry.com/family-tree/person/tree/154774979/person/192089358878/facts>

<https://www.familysearch.org/tree/person/details/G98Y-RZM>

<https://quantum-neuroscience.com/Rotrude-de-Haudre-WIFE-of-Ingerman-de-Hesbaye>

<https://www.familysearch.org/photos/artifacts/79240505?p=22622061>

--

On Family Search, Sanne keeps deleting Rothilde de Haudre by merging her with Ruodhaid Carolingian, the daughter of Charlemagne and Madelgarde. Then I have to restore her again to existence.

I prefer to keep Rothilde de Haudre completely separated from Ruodhaid Carolingian, Rotrude de Hesbaye, and Rothilde Carolingian in my genealogy records, so that these four different women don't accidentally get merged together into ONE.

<https://www.ancestry.com/family-tree/person/tree/154774979/person/192089358878/facts>

Rothilde de Haudre WAS NOT Ruodhaid Carolingian, so they shouldn't be merged together into one. READ THE LIFE SKETCHES and figure out what's really going on before merging things.

--

Sanne keeps erroneously merging Rotrude or Rothilde de Haudre WITH Ruodhaid Carolingian. This is FALSE! It's physically impossible for the daughter of Duke Haudre to be simultaneously the daughter of Charlemagne. She's either one or the other, and not both simultaneously. For some unknown reason, Sanne is treating them both unitedly as the Abbess of Faremoutiers, which is physically impossible.

Sanne has chosen to call this fictional merger of Rothilde de Haudre with Ruodhaid Carolingian by the name Rotrude de Hesbaye, and we see the erroneous results at this link.

<https://www.familysearch.org/tree/person/details/G9DF-W2N>

IT'S SLOPPY, and I don't like it. But, there is nothing I can do about it except to explain why it is false.

--

When it comes to the proposed Rotrude de Hesbaye, the mother of Ermengarde and wife of Ingelram de Hesbaye, her parentage is unknown. Rotrude de Hesbaye is therefore her married name, and NOT her ancestral name!

<https://www.familysearch.org/tree/person/details/G9XZ-JVB>

It has been speculated that Rotrude de Hesbaye may in fact have been Rothilde de Haudre, the daughter of Duke Haudre de Yonne. I can't find any evidence to support it, but the dates work.

--

Ingerman, Count of Hesbaye

Ingerman (Ingram, Enguerrand) (c. 750-818), was a Frankish noble and Count of Hesbaye, son of Sigram of Hesbaye.

Ingerman married Rotrude of unknown parentage (possibly Rotrude de Haudre). Ingerman and Rotrude had one daughter:

Ermengarde. She married into the Frankish royal family, the Carolingians and was the first wife of King Louis the Pious, Son of Charlemagne.

https://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Ingerman,_Count_of_Hesbaye

--

I like this idea because it is my idea; but, it's probably not true. The dates work, though – to have the daughter of Duke Haudre function as the missing mother of Ermengarde de Hesbaye.

<https://markme.us/Rotrude-de-Haudre-DAUGHTER-of-Duke-Haudre/>

I was surprised how quick some people were to latch onto this idea and start using it.

The problem is that it's being used erroneously!

A person online proceeded to merge or conflate Rothilde de Haudre with Ruodhaid de Charlemagne, thereby producing a Fictional Hybrid that can't possibly be true. He's trying to merge seven different women into ONE, and I'm trying to separate them out into individuals and trying to treat them as individuals.

Fictional Hybrid Rotrude de Hesbaye, All Seven Women Merged into ONE

<https://www.familysearch.org/tree/person/details/G9DF-W2N>

I find it kind of frustrating when this individual deletes my ancestors from existence on Family Search by trying to merge all seven of them into ONE.

--

Sanne wants Rothilde de Haudre daughter of Duke Haudre, Ruodhaid Carolingian by Madelgarde, Rothilde Carolingian by Hildegard, Rotrude de Hesbaye of Unknown Parentage and WIFE of Ingerman de Hesbaye, the Fictional Rothilde the WIFE of Charlemagne, the real historical Rotrude de Hesbaye, and the real historical Rothilde Carolingian ALL MERGED INTO ONE and functioning as the Abbess of Faremoutiers. I don't buy it. IT'S SLOPPY AND IT'S FALSE.

The daughter of Duke Haudre and the daughter of Charlemagne should NEVER be merged together into one because it's physically impossible for them to be the same person!!! Yet, that's precisely what Sanne is doing at most of his links including this one.

<https://www.familysearch.org/tree/person/details/GMQM-NMS>

--

Some of the Falsehoods Regarding Rotrude de Hesbaye

Rotrude de Hesbaye was meant to be the missing wife for Ingerman de Hesbaye; and, for a while there, I truly believed that she was in fact Rothilde de Haudre, the daughter of Duke Haudre. The dates work, and it's truly possible that it could be real.

HOWEVER, there's tons of online documentation stating that Rothilde de Haudre, the daughter of Duke Haudre de Yonne was in fact married to Mainier de Sens, and is in fact the mother of Gainfroi de Sens. Therefore, it makes it unlikely, though not impossible, that Rothilde de Haudre produced Gainfroi de Sens in 770 with Mainier de Sens, and then went forward and produced Ermengarde de Hesbaye in 778 with Ingerman de Hesbaye.

This bizarre turn of events is presented here at this particular link:

Rotrude de Haudre, MERGED INTO ONE HUGE MESS

<https://www.familysearch.org/tree/person/details/GMQM-NMS>

It's fine, and it works, as long as the nutters at Family Search don't start merging Rothilde de Haudre with Ruodhaid Carolingian resulting in some kind of Fictional Hybrid Rotrude de Hesbaye that we see here at this link:

Fictional Hybrid Rotrude de Hesbaye All Seven Women Merged into ONE

<https://www.familysearch.org/tree/person/details/G9DF-W2N>

I personally don't like seeing seven different women being merged into one on Family Search or anywhere else for that matter.

--

--

WARNING:

There is a real historical Rotrude de Hesbaye who is also getting merged into this mess or confused with this mess. The problem is that the real historical Rotrude de Hesbaye is in fact part of Charlemagne's ancestry and therefore has NOTHING to do with Duke Haudre de Yonne. By merging all seven women into ONE, the real historical Rotrude de Hesbaye could get overlooked in the process. This person on Family Search, who wants to merge all of these women into ONE, doesn't look at the dates nor their ancestry when making his mergers and deletions. This person doesn't read the Life Sketches either. This person simply merges all seven of these women together into one.

Consequently, I've had to set all of this up on Ancestry.com, where I can easily restore the women that Sanne deletes and merges out of existence.

<https://www.ancestry.com/family-tree/person/tree/154774979/person/192089358878/facts>

--

Rotrude de Hesbaye and Trèves

23 August 0688 – 22 October 0724

<https://www.familysearch.org/tree/person/details/LDZ2-VNG>

Rotrude of Hesbaye, DAUGHTER OF Lambert de Hesbaye

Rotrude DE HESBAYE

Born 8 July 690 - Trèves Gard

Deceased 16 July 734, aged 44 years old

Nun at the Abbess of Chelles

<https://gw.geneanet.org/phildum54?n=de+hesbaye&oc=&p=rotrude>

<https://gw.geneanet.org/leodumas2?n=de+hesbaye&oc=&p=rotrude>

Rotrude (Chrodtrudis) (died 724) was the first wife of Charles Martel.

https://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Rotrude_of_Hesbaye

https://en.geneanet.org/fonds/individus/?go=1&nom=de+Hesbaye&nom_conjoint=de+Hesbaye&prenom=Rotrude&prenom_conjoint=Ingelram&prenom_conjoint_operateur=or&prenom_operateur=or&utm_campaign=search&utm_medium=partner&utm_source=partner_familysearch

--

When I do a search for Rotrude de Hesbaye, this is the person that comes up. She was the first wife of Charles Martel, and NOT the wife of Ingerman de Hesbaye.

Rotrude de Hesbaye WIFE of Ingerman de Hesbaye

0753 – 6 June 0810

<https://www.familysearch.org/tree/person/details/G98Y-RZM>

It's unfortunate and confusing whenever someone starts merging all of these different Rotrudes and Rothildes together in to ONE as if they were the same person. It makes a MESS that doesn't make sense when he is done.